The Marine Energy Transition Forum

EVENT DETAILS

- Date: 15 September 2025
(first day of London International Shipping Week)
- Venue: Norton Rose Fulbright LLP offices, London, with spectacular views across the River Thames toward the City of London skyline.
- Theme: The Commercial Imperative: Proving the Business Case for Shipping's Decarbonisation
- Format: Case studies, panels and networking sessions featuring representatives from shipping lines, port authorities, technology providers, financiers, industry associations and regulators.
- Special Invite: All METF delegates are welcome to attend the invitation-only LISW25 Bunker Party.

The Marine Energy Transition Forum (METF) 2025 will take place on 15 September as part of London International Shipping Week (LISW25), bringing together shipping, marine fuel and port-sector stakeholders to assess the pace of progress on decarbonisation.

With a headline theme of 'The Commercial Imperative: Proving the Business Case for Shipping's Decarbonisation', this year METF will consider how the industry is faring in commercialising fuel and technologies initiatives to move forwards on shipping's energy transition.
