

Maritime Week Africa 2026

POST EVENT REPORT

From Ambition to Action: Energising Africa's Shipping and Bunkering Sectors

Event Attendance

The 17th edition of this renowned event featured eminent industry and government speakers representing bunker buyers and suppliers, ports, refiners, regulators, and maritime professionals, all addressing the unique issues and opportunities shaping Africa's marine fuels industry.

Maritime Week Africa 2026 was a leading maritime fuels and bunkering conference held in Cape Town, bringing shipping, port and energy leaders together to discuss African market trends, regulation, decarbonisation, networking, training, and South Africa's role as a regional bunkering hub.

Branding

The photos highlight strong sponsor visibility and cohesive branding throughout the Maritime Week Africa 2026 conference. Sponsor logos were prominently displayed on digital screens, event signage, and branded materials such as totem displays, photowall, and exhibition stands. Branding was consistently integrated across high-traffic areas - including networking spaces, registration zones, and conference sessions - ensuring top sponsors like Astron and others were highly visible and seamlessly embedded into the overall event experience.

Mailing Campaigns

In the lead-up to MAAF26, a series of dynamic email campaigns showcased the event's sponsors and supporters to a highly targeted audience of more than 13,000 recipients per send. Each email prominently displayed the official sponsor bar, featuring all logos and a direct link to the event website's sponsor page, where detailed company profiles and insights were highlighted. This consistent exposure enhanced visibility and engagement, recognising the invaluable support of our sponsors while driving traffic and generating interest in the event.

Delegate Feedback

“Engaged and inspired at Maritime Week Africa 2026! A fantastic gathering of industry leaders and experts discussing innovative strategies to energize Africa’s shipping and bunkering sectors. Looking forward to driving change and collaboration for a sustainable maritime future. Thank you to Mr Krishnan Subramaniam FICS International Chairman of Institute of Institute of Chartered Shipbrokers, South Africa and Mr Hariesh Manaadiar for the informative discussion”

- Thomas Musendo, Marketing Manager, Solar and Energy Group Holdings

“A big thank you to the organizers at ship.energy for a wonderful event in Cape Town last week! ”

- Trine Braathan, Director, Environmental Trading, Blue Energy Partners

“What to say about Maritime Africa Week 2026 - One word, “Unbelievable”. I’m deeply proud of the way Eleven Energy was received at this event, it was also a pleasure to sponsor it. I really want to say how great I think our industry still is and ultimately my words are inspired because of the people I just had the pleasure of spending a week with at Maritime Africa Week. There is still a big human element to our industry and what I saw this week made me feel buoyant that our industry still has a tonne of great people that I believe are doing great things a give our industry a chance to not only navigate, but actually to thrive.... Everyone I met I wish the best to and thanks for making this “the best trip I’ve ever been on!”

To wrap it up.... A big thanks for Ship.Energy for hosting a great event! You guys did amazing!”

- Chris Todd, CEO Group Director, Eleven Energy

“FixEnergies was happy to attend Maritime Week Africa 2026!

It was a great few days full of catch-ups and easy conversations, with lots of shared perspectives on Africa’s role in the marine energy space. Ksenia Gorodishtian and Oliver Porse were there for FixEnergies, catching up with familiar faces and meeting plenty of new ones along the way.

And a big thank you to the ship.energy team for putting together such a smooth, enjoyable event.”

- Fix Energies

“A big thank you to ship.energy for hosting the Maritime Week Africa 2026 hosted last week.

Together with both Damian Viccars and Olivier Straub, it was a real pleasure to engage with stakeholders from across the African maritime space. Discussions highlighted the role of predictable global rules at the International Maritime Organization in supporting investment, competitiveness, and sustainable growth. At the same time, it was particularly valuable to hear directly from those working on the ground and to deepen understanding of the local realities shaping ports, bunkering, and maritime operations across the continent.”

- Felix Sames, Policy Manager, World Shipping Council
